

ESS Group, Inc. provides integrated multi-media compliance assessments for industrial and institutional clients, and is a recognized leader in environmental, health, and safety training. Our multi-disciplinary in-house service capabilities provide a distinct advantage to our industrial and institutional clients.

Our staff of scientists, engineers, and regulatory specialists can fully address air quality, wastewater, solid waste, hazardous waste, manufacturing waste, and materials safety and handling issues in a coordinated team approach. In addition, our established expertise in these multiple disciplines allows for an integrated approach to issues analysis and permitting strategies with a focus on cost-effective and timely solutions.

ESS assists companies in setting up proactive environmental management programs. Such programs can provide the benefits of reducing environmental liabilities, identifying cost saving measures, and demonstrating a corporate commitment to environmental performance to customers, regulators, and the local community.
